

Superintendent Message

October/November 2017

It is hard to believe we are into October and that our first grading period will end October 20, 2017. As a district we continue to work through our strategic plan and innovation initiative to improve our instructional strategies to attain improved student achievement. As a district, we are tremendously proud of our commitment to the 7 Habits of Highly Effective People by Steven Covey and our Trauma Informed Care initiative. These efforts have improved our student's abilities to process situations that in the past may have created other problems including undesired behaviors, discipline issues and the inability to perform productive work in their school environment. Handling these situations and processing them with the help of aides, cooks, bus drivers, custodians, teachers, counselors, and administration or other school personnel have created many positive outcomes.

Fall is a very busy time of the year for schools and your students. There are many programs and events that will add to your child's educational experience. We also stress to parents the importance of communicating with us as we create a team of support to serve your student(s) to the best of our ability. Please get involved with support organizations such as booster clubs, PTO, or contact my office to be a part of Focus Groups that we will be holding from now to the first of the year. It is important to us that your voice is heard and as we move forward our efforts to be a true reflection of the community wishes for education in the Findlay City Schools!
